

Individual Student Profile

Name
Tutor
Course
Date

CapstoneWriting.com

Individual Student Profile

Introduction

People go through various experiences as they grow. Due to the complexity of life, it is crucial for a person to have a philosophy and goals. The philosophy defines what the person believes in throughout life. It is the base point of many of the activities that the individual engages in. In addition, goals are crucial for a person to achieve success in life. Goals enable people to focus on the important things that enable them to achieve that which they term as success. It is important for a person to have a well-defined philosophy and goals that are attainable as well as working towards them.

My philosophy entails discovering the factors that make each child unique as well as molding them to become good citizens after they finish their education. In order to achieve this feat, I have to act as facilitators in the classroom to enable the students to explore themselves and respecting each other. To achieve success, it is vital to promote love, opportunities to laugh and desires to learn at all times. This activity will essentially enable me to achieve the goals I have set. One of my main aims is to improve my understanding of literacy and its application in a classroom. Understanding this concept will enable me to instruct elementary students effectively during my first years after graduation.

Secondly, I have a goal of learning all values addressed through literacy. This feat will enable me to educate adult students to learn and work towards their goals in real life through the GED program. These values include appreciating the opinions of other people. This is because people have different opinions regarding similar issues in real life. In class, a student might have a different opinion from what the teacher has. In this case, a literate person will understand the difference in views and accept them. It will be easy to avoid and deal with disagreements because of difference in opinions.

In addition, I have a goal of being competent in literacy skills through integration of technology. This goal will enable me to comprehend learning through online development programs. This is one of the requirements in the education course. In addition, technology has improved the learning process of many people due to the development of online content for schools.

Moreover, I have a goal of incorporating the learned skills as stipulated in my program of study. In order to realize this goal, I will engage in research practices. In the same moment, I will have to enhance the achievements of English Language Learners through reciprocating the skills I learned during my studies. In real life situation, applying the skills a person acquires in school enables him to live his dream. In my case, I will, therefore, improve the literacy levels of my students in the manner stipulated in my studies.

Finally, I have a goal of developing the required skills through learning in the graduate and upper graduate levels. I will work towards reducing poverty in the community by engaging in research-based practices as well as participating in self-development initiatives. Research enables the development of new ideas to solve problems and improve the lives of many people.

Attaining a higher degree is a significant step in the lives of many people. Pursuing a graduate degree is one of the goals that I want to achieve in my life. The reason why I want to achieve this feat is to enable me to acquire skills to assist me in my course of work. Being a reading teacher at the elementary level, this level of education would enable me to gain a Reading Certification as I strive to get a teaching certificate. Additionally, I am a life-long learner who desires to add his understanding in the education field. Earning a Master's of Education would be a crucial stepping-stone for me to achieve my dreams. This step will assist me in my goal of ensuring language fluency in children is attained. I will teach the students from the knowledge I will have gathered in my studies. The impact of my effort will be increasing the literacy levels in my community.

Conclusion

It is the dream of many people to achieve a purpose in their lives. This is because of the compound nature of the present world due to education and improved humanity. One of the ways to achieve these dreams is through having goals in life. The goals must be reasonable in order to avoid people concentrating on unattainable ventures. In addition, it is an added advantage to have a philosophy in life. A defined philosophy enables people to work toward attaining their dreams. Therefore, it is essential for all people to re-evaluate their lives and set goals and philosophies to attain success in their lives.